

Aisling Ahlström

Aisling Ahlström, PhD, is currently the Group-wide Lab Director for Livio AB and the local Lab Director at Livio Fertilitetscentrum in Gothenburg. Livio AB operates nine IVF clinics across Sweden, Norway, and Iceland. Originally from Australia, she completed her Bachelor's degree in Science with honors before working as a research assistant in reproductive immunology with Professor Sarah Robertson in Adelaide. In 2000, she moved to Sweden and began working as an embryologist at Fertilitetscentrum, a private clinic established in 1987 by Dr. Matts Wikland, Professor Lars Hamberger, and others. While at Fertilitetscentrum, she pursued her PhD, which she obtained in 2013, under the supervision of Matts Wikland and Torbjörn Hillensjö. Her main research interests include embryo viability, selection methods, and blastocyst culture
